Blair Society for Genealogical Research

Digital Image Archive

This compilation contains a description of each Digital Image made from photographs included in the Blair Society Photographic Albums Volumes I, II, and III archived at the Atlanta History Center, Atlanta, GA. We have produced a Digital Image for the majority of photographs in the archived albums, although the Digital Image Archive is not all inclusive. Due to the subject matter or photographic quality of the material in the photographic albums, various items were not included in the Digital Image Archive. The identifying information in the description, for the most part, was provided by the individual who donated the material or from information noted on the photographs. The Society compiler has in some cases verified information from Society sources where conflicts were noted and has made additional comments where conflicts still exist. However, the Society makes no claims for the validity of the information submitted and recommends additional research when warranted. The description of the Digital Image is not intended to provide detailed genealogical information which may be available from other Society publications or sources.

Information on ordering printed or electronic copies of images in The Digital Image Archive is detailed on the last page of this document.

The original soft cover version of the Digital Image Descriptions was produced in August 1998, by the compiler, Raymond H. Stoudt. This PDF version is a revision of the original and includes a Photographic Thumbnail of each Digital Image. If you have questions about the Digital Image Archive or this document you may contact Raymond H. Stoudt, BSGR #673, e-mail <rhstoudt@aol.com>.

The Digital Image Archive is maintained exclusively by the Society Archive Committee.

Explanation of Digital Image Description Format

Every effort has been made to describe the photographs in the Digital Image Archive Collection to the fullest extent possible.
